Creating a How-To Video Site

Sep 4th, 2006 by steven.m.casey

I really enjoyed this article so I decided to make my own site in the 2Lattes style. Simple and cheap! 😊

Check it out under the How2 Video page.

The mini-guide for building sites like this is in draft form now but will be released within 4 weeks.

How To Create A Blog To Sell Your Products and Services

How To Create A Blog To Sell Your Products and Services

googlevideo.squarespace.com
1 Std. 0 Min. 33 Sek. - 03.09.2006

If you are interested in having a web site but have no knowledge of html or web design you might want to consider having a Blog instead.

A blog is a “web log” or journal. Rather than a web site with information, a blog is a list of articles you write about events in your life. However, it does not stop there. Many people use blogs as a simple way of providing news and information and this helps to sell there or other peoples products and services through affiliate marketing or other methods.

There are various ways to publish a blog but the easiest is to use SquareSpace.com. This is a advanced blogging service created to make your blog stand out from the others. You log into the web site, create your pages and they handle all the uploading for you. You do not require any software or knowledge of html to use this service.

This video will take you step by step through the process of creating a Blog using SquareSpace.com

How To Break Web Software - A look at security vulnerabilities in web software

How To Break Web Software - A look at security vulnerabilities in web software

Mike Andrews

Mike Andrews is a senior consultant who specializes in software security and leads the web application security assessments and Ultimate Web Hacking classes for Foundstone.

ABSTRACT

It all started out as a place to share physics documents, but has grown into potentially mankind's largest and most complex creation. The World Wide Web is a lot of things - a soapbox for everyone, a giant shopping mall, an application platform, and unfortunately a hacker's playground.

As more applications get "web-ified" moving from the desktop or legacy systems onto the web, attackers follow the vulnerabilities. Without sophisticated tools or "1337 5×11z", web applications are now the most attacked technology, with the majority of attacks categorized as "easily exploitable".

So, before your application is placed out into one of the most hostile environments, how do you stop your software from being "Own3d" by the 14 year old in their blacked-out bedroom, or being used by a Russian crime cartel?

In this TechTalk, Mike Andrews will look at how web applications are attacked, walk through a testing framework for evaluating the security of an application and take some deep-dives into a few interesting and common vulnerabilities and how they can be exploited.
